a tragic farce

If we wish to outline an architecture which conforms to the structure of our soul..., it would have to be conceived in the image of the labyrinth.

—Nietzsche

Written and performed by Jonathan De Souza

Stage management by Diana Wilson

Original artwork by Lar deSouza

Incidental music by Jonathan De Souza

Theseus in the Labyrinth premiered at the 2001 London Fringe Festival and is being remounted this summer as part of the Hamilton, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, and Victoria Fringe Festivals. It is published in the new anthology of plays from London, Ballyhoo 2001, (Published by Virtual E Solved, edited by Jeff Culbert).

Jonathan De Souza (playwright/performer/composer) is one of London, Ontario's busiest emerging playwrights. He recently won the special Adjudicator's Award at the 2003 London One-Act Festival, the same festival where he won 'Best Original Script' and 'Best Performance' in 2002. Called 'a writing talent to watch' (theatreinlondon.ca), he has also appeared as an actor in many productions, from musical theatre to Shakespeare. In addition to his work with his own company, Inke Poding Theatrics, he has had plays as part of Studio K's New Play Series and the Grand Theatre's Playwright's Cabaret. When he's not touring to Fringes, he can be found playing the viola and studying music theory and composition at the University of Western Ontario.

Dianasaurus Rex (stage manager) is active in the London scene as both an actress and director, as well as behind the scenes. She recently starred in UWO's production of The Rehearsal and Inke Poding's T1 General. In 2001, she directed Romeo and Juliet (Poor Theatre). You can read Diana's web diary of Inke Poding's 2003 Canadian tour on our website, www.inkepoding.com.
